Exhibition Overview

1987，是我國民主化重要且關鍵的轉折數碼，長達38年的戒嚴終於畫下句點。這段爭取自由民主之路，充滿艱辛與荊棘，那些年被限縮的自由，不能說的話、不能做的事，從社會到家庭、從軍中到校園、從團體到個人，形成人民的戒嚴日常。

解嚴前，街頭社會運動風起雲湧，不斷挑戰既有體制；解嚴成真後，限制人民的枷鎖打開，面臨全新時代的調和適應，社會雖動盪卻又充滿希望。這些努力爭取而來的自由民主，在1987年後，仍不斷淬鍊茁壯，為更多元、更美好的家園繼續奮鬥前行。

The year 1987 marked a pivotal turning point in Taiwan's journey toward democratization. After 38 long years, martial law was finally lifted. The path to freedom and democracy had been arduous and fraught with obstacles. During that era, countless restrictions shaped everyday life—what could not be said, what could not be done. From society to the home, from the military to schools, from organizations to individuals, martial law permeated the fabric of daily life.

Before the lifting of martial law, Taiwan's streets were alive with surging social movements that challenged the authoritarian system. Once the lifting became reality, the shackles on civil liberties were cast off. Society entered a period of transition—turbulent, yet full of hope. The freedom and democracy hard-won through years of struggle have continued to evolve and deepen ever since, driving the pursuit of a more inclusive and just society.

Lifting of Martial Law

戒嚴日常—Memories! Daily Life Under Martial Law—Memories!

1949年開始，在政府戒嚴命令下，噤聲、謹守規矩的生活、學習、成長，用符合當時政府的標準，來審視自己、檢視他人，將戒嚴「非常」變成「日常」。曾經一起走過戒嚴的年代，經歷與承擔這塊土地的酸甜苦辣，也留下戒嚴世代的集體記憶。

Beginning in 1949, under the directives of martial law, people lived, studied, and grew up in silence and caution. They learned to judge themselves—and each other—according to the standards set by the authorities, gradually turning the extraordinary state of martial law into the rhythms of daily life. Those who lived through the era shared its trials and burdens, bearing witness to the joys and sorrows of this land. Together, they formed the collective memory of a generation shaped by martial law.

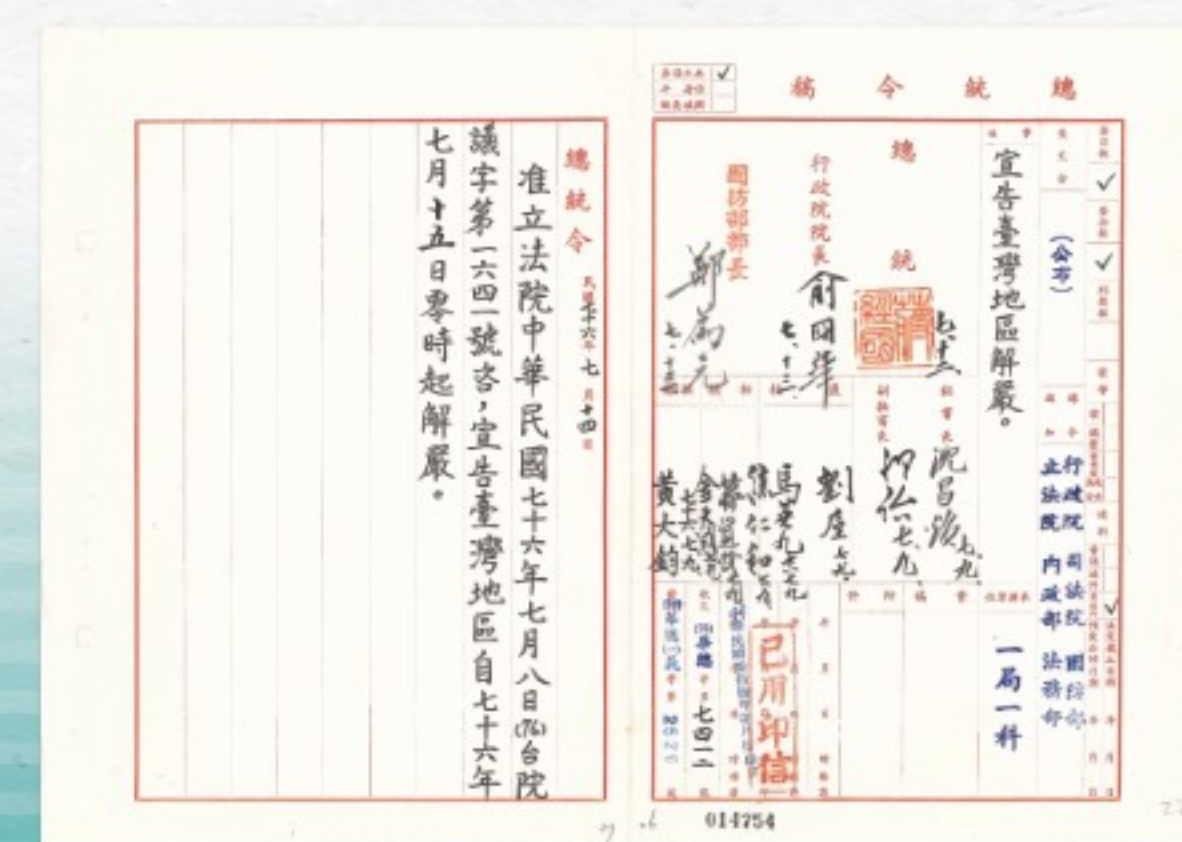

解嚴成真—Let's go! Lifting Martial Law Becomes Reality—Let's Go!

解嚴前，從社會、校園到媒體，都在為民主改革奮勇向前，不斷衝撞戒嚴體制，社會街頭運動，國內外壓力，終於讓政府決定解除戒嚴，長年追求的梦想成真。隨著政治、經濟與社會的轉型發展，逐步跳脫戒嚴時代的限制，從而迎來屬於我們的民主新紀元。

In the years leading up to the lifting, movements for democratic reform surged across society, campuses, and media, relentlessly challenging the martial law regime. Mounting domestic unrest and international pressure eventually led the government to make the decision to end martial law. A long-cherished dream of freedom came true. Amid political, economic, and social transformation, Taiwan began to shed the constraints of the martial law era and entered a new democratic era shaped by and for the people.

民主進化—Ing! Democracy in Progress!

解嚴後，社會運動如雨後春筍般出現，來自街頭多元訴求的聲音，持續為落實民主化而努力，從廢除《動員戡亂時期臨時條款》到修正《刑法》第100條，讓言論自由向前跨步；而首次總統直選完成了人民當家作主的新里程，我們懷抱理想與熱情，持續為更自由民主與公平正義的生活築夢踏實。

After martial law was lifted, social movements proliferated rapidly. Diverse voices from the streets pressed forward for deeper democratization—from repealing the "Temporary Provisions During the Period of National Mobilization for Suppression of the Communist Rebellion" to amending Article 100 of the "Criminal Code", advancing the cause of free expression. The first direct presidential election marked a new milestone in popular sovereignty. With ideals and passion, the people of Taiwan continue to strive for a freer, more democratic, and more just society.
